

HAMPTON HILL PARISH MAGAZINE.

THE VICARAGE,
HAMPTON HILL,
May 1st, 1922.

MY DEAR PEOPLE,

It was a great happiness to me to see so many obeying Our Lord's Command on Easter Day; but, as someone suggested, "What about all the rest of the year?" I am hoping greatly that more and more will take advantage of the opportunity given by the week-day 7.30 a.m. Holy Communion.

Our next Great Festival is Ascension Day, the Coronation Day, it has been called, of our Risen Lord. There will be Holy Communion at 7.30 and 12; Children's Service at 9.10, and Evensong and Sermon at 8 p.m.

An account of the Dedication of the Memorials to the late Vicar appears elsewhere; they not only commemorate the ministry of one much beloved in this Parish, but they add to the beauty of the Church. The amount required has been fully subscribed, and a balance sheet will appear next month.

At the Easter Vestry, Mr. C. H. Evans was again elected Parish Churchwarden, with thanks for his services, and I nominated Mr. C. H. Carpenter as Vicar's Warden, with my gratitude for his help.

I am glad to record that the excellent sum of £9 13s. 6d. was contained in the Lenten Saving's Boxes for the Police Court Mission.

I call your special attention to a meeting which will be held in the Church Room, on Thursday, May 11th, at 8 p.m. I hope as many as possible will come, as we wish to make arrangements for a Garden Fête to take place this summer. Last year, after a very short notice, we took £100. I trust we may double that amount this year, and we can!

Mr. Elliott informs me that he has received seven subscribers of 5/- monthly for the Curate's Fund, and he is looking anxiously for the remaining 93; please cheer him by making one of that number.

The next Mothers' Union Service will be held in the Church at 3 p.m., on Wednesday, May 24th.

Yours very truly,

R. COAD PRYOR.

Intercessions.

Let us pray to the Holy Spirit:

To stir up in the Clergy of the Diocese a passionate love of souls;

To give back to any who have lost it their first love for ministerial work;

To inspire those who have lately received a new Cure of souls with a contagious enthusiasm for the service of Jesus Christ and the making of disciples in London;

To keep those recently ordained true to the highest ideals of the Christian Ministry.

To abide with increasing power in those who are being confirmed this year;

To enable them as faithful Christians to meet the spiritual needs of their generation with the power and truth of Jesus;

To save our commercial and industrial life from the poison of suspicion and distrust by teaching men to follow all paths that lead to goodwill;

To sustain with fortitude and hope all who are suffering from unemployment;

To order the life and resources of the nations so that all men may rejoice together again in the blessing of work, and with thankfulness to God eat the labours of their hands.

To inspire all missionaries with ever new measure of wisdom that they may preach Jesus and His Gospel in terms that will appeal to the characteristic mind and temperament of each nation severally.

To guide all efforts being made to give Native Churches a wise liberty in the ordering of their services while confirming loyalty to our ancient and distinctive principles of Catholic worship.

PRAISE AND THANKSGIVING.

Let us praise the Holy Spirit for all the wonders we have seen and heard by His quickening power in the Church through another Holy Week and Easter.

Let us thank the Holy Spirit for every faithful communion made at Eastertide.

Let us bless the Holy Spirit for all Easter joy and glorying in the Church throughout the world.

THE LATE REV. C. R. JOB.

Memorials Unveiled at Hampton Hill Parish Church.

In memory of the late Rev. C. R. Job, for twenty-one years Vicar of St. James', Hampton Hill, a stained glass window and wall tablet were unveiled at the church by Prebendary H. P. Prosser (Rural Dean of Hampton) on Wednesday evening.

Conducted by the Vicar, the service commenced with the hymn, "The strife is o'er," and included the Rev. C. R. Job's favourite Psalm, the 91st, one of the lessons being the famous passage commencing, "But the souls of the righteous are with God."

After an anthem the Rural Dean, accompanied by the Vicar, proceeded first to the window in the north side of the chancel and then to the tablet at the end of the south aisle and dedicated each in turn.

Service was the theme of Prebendary Prosser's address, and the words of his text, "After he had served his own generation by the will of God he fell on sleep," he ventured to say might be applied with the greatest possible truth to the friend of whom they were thinking that night. There was no greater thing in the world than service, and certainly in the work of a parish priest there could be no question of the service asked for from him who would be faithful and true. More than any man, perhaps, he was one who helped forward the present as well as the eternal happiness and interest of those with whom it had pleased God he should spend his days on earth. He could speak from experience when he said that that was faithfully and truly done by their friend of whom they were especially thinking. During some twenty years they were associated in various ways in work and service, and he knew the devotion and energy and prayer he threw into all his work. They got corroboration of that on every side. In that place he served his own generation according to the will of God.

Owing to ill-health the widow was unable to be present, but the congregation included Mr. and Mrs. Conway Job (son and daughter-in-law) and Mrs. Ernest Job (daughter-in-law).

Nearly £100 was subscribed for the memorials. The stained glass window represents St. John the Evangelist and bears the words. "To the glory of God and in memory of Charles Robert Job, priest, Vicar of this parish A.D. 1893-1914. Erected by parishioners and friends." A gun-metal cross on a stone tablet constitutes the other memorial, and on the base is the inscription, "This tablet, together with the north window in the chancel, is erected in memory of Charles Robert Job, Vicar 1893-1914."
